

MR. CAMERON, EXAM. BY MR. MERRICK

1 politics.

2 So you know, we're all hurt by it. But the people
3 that are hurt the most are the wives and the children,
4 and the parents that will never, ever, ever see their
5 loved one again. And somehow we -- somehow, somehow that
6 next step has got to be taken so those people can do like
7 all of us when we lose someone that close to us, get by
8 their hurt and start remembering the fond times again.
9 That's very sad, and it's the saddest situation I've ever
10 been involved in in my public life.

11 Q. Thank you, Mr. Cameron. That's all I have. Perhaps
12 that's a break point, Mr. Commissioner.

13 COMMISSIONER Yeah, we'll recess. Do we need the other
14 half hour or recess until two?

15 MR. MERRICK I think two is all right.

16 COMMISSIONER Okay, we'll recess until two then. Thank
17 you. Just to tell counsel, the parties, there will be a
18 half hour of cross-examination as required.

19 INQUIRY RECESSED (TIME: 12:23 p.m.)

20 INQUIRY RESUMED (TIME: 2:01 p.m.)

21 MR. MERRICK Mr. Commissioner, perhaps before we begin,
22 there was just one point to clarify coming out of Mr.
23 Cameron's evidence this morning. There was some 24 discussion as to whether Mr. Phelan and Mr. Jones had --
25 what they had done in exercise of issuing that permit
